

Riskconnect for the Energy Industry

Riskconnect software integrates risk data, analytics, and insights to help you succeed in challenging environments.

Energy and mining companies operate in one of the most hypercompetitive and regulated industries in the world. Government involvement, scarce resources, employee injury, emerging markets, and unforeseen risks can threaten operations, reputation, and the bottom line in a matter of seconds.

How do you achieve success amid such challenging conditions?

“The challenges we had were that a lot of our projects were in spreadsheets, our risk registers were disjointed, and we couldn’t accumulate data. We didn’t have a good visibility of how much of a risk we were exposed to in our portfolio. Riskconnect allows us to put all that data in a system that allows us to not only see on a cumulative basis – by product, system, business unit, or enterprise-wide – what our risk exposure is, but also see similarity between type of services, products, and projects and learn from it.”
