

DATA TRANSFORMATION SERVICES

IS YOUR DATA HOLDING YOU BACK?

Transforming data from multiple systems, various formats, and different regulatory requirements into usable information – all while dealing with different regulatory reporting requirements – can be overwhelming. All that work gobbles up limited resources, drags down productivity, and pushes up costs.

And are you confident in the quality of what you end up with?

DATA THAT'S READY TO GO

Riskconnect's fully dedicated Data Transformation Services team can efficiently convert, consolidate, report, and extract data so you can focus on more strategic priorities while reducing operational costs, financial penalties, and potential reputational risks.

Our professionals are among the most knowledgeable and experienced in the industry, writing more than 500 new conversions per year and processing 34,000 files annually, accounting for 150+ million claims from over 1,000 distinct sources.

We are the only one in the industry capable of cleaning data with both standard business rules and customization edits prior to implementation. Not only does this protect the integrity of information from the start, it saves you from having to fix bad data down the road.

Data is seamlessly and securely transported between organizations, carriers, and government reporting agencies so you can focus on more strategic priorities while reducing operational costs, financial penalties, and potential reputational risks.
