

Riskconnect for the FOOD & BEVERAGE INDUSTRY

Riskconnect software helps you protect the quality of your food, the safety of your people, and the integrity of your customers' experience.

Streamline reporting. Quickly organize large amounts of data to find insights, simplify decisions, and comply with complex food safety and labor regulations.

Understand sourcing-to-consumption context. Connect data from different sources – suppliers, locations, operations, and more – to keep the business running under even the most challenging conditions.

Stop cascading effects fast. See how risks correlate to quickly halt downstream effects that can wreak havoc on operations, jeopardize the health of your customers, and tarnish your brand.

One of the things that we didn't realize when we began the journey was the interconnected nature of ERM and regulatory compliance. Now we view the two as nearly interchangeable with one another, with regulatory compliance representing a component of nearly every risk and a key critical input to the IRM program.

Protect the Health of Your People and Customers

Keeping employees and customers safe from onsite injury and food-borne illness is critically important to the FAB industry for many reasons – not the least of which is the potential for financial damage.

Riskconnect can help you set strong governance practices around food safety and workplace safety to avoid regulatory fines, minimize claims, and improve safety for all.

Build Trust with Transparency

There's nothing more important – or fragile – than your reputation for delivering the food you promised.

Riskconnect can help you manage interconnected risks with end-to-end visibility to strengthen operations and protect your brand.

Deliver What's Promised

Unmanaged controls like temperature checks or ingredients that don't meet your standards can cause irreparable harm.

Riskconnect can help you maintain tight controls over safety and quality risks with a clear audit trail.
